CALL TO WORSHIP

Minister: One thing I asked of the Lord that I will seek after:
To live in the house of the Lord all the days of my life
To behold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in God’s temple.
Sisters and brothers, God is good, and in love and mercy greets us here.

People: Amen.

ANTHEM

Lo, the Full, Final Sacrifice, Op. 26 (1946)

Lo, the full, final, Sacrifice
On which all figures fix’t their eyes.
The ransomed Isaac, and his ram;
The Manna, and the Paschal Lamb.

Jesu Master, just and true!
Our Food, and faithful Shepherd too!

O let that love which thus makes thee
Mix with our low Mortality,
Lift our lean Souls, and set us up
Convictors of thine own full cup,
Coheirs of Saints. That so all may
Drink the same wine; and the same Way.
Nor change the Pasture, but the Place
To feed of Thee in thine own Face.

O dear Memorial of that Death
Which lives still, and allows us breath!
Rich, Royal food! Bountiful Bread!
Whose use denies us to the dead!

Live ever Bread of loves, and be
My life, my soul, my surer self to me.

Help Lord, my Faith, my Hope increase;
And fill my portion in thy peace.
Give love for life; nor let my days
Grow, but in new powers to thy name and praise.

Rise, Royal Sion! rise and sing
Thy soul’s kind shepherd, thy heart’s King.
Stretch all thy powers; call if you can
Harps of heaven to hands of man.
This sovereign subject sits above
The best ambition of thy love.

Lo the Bread of Life, this day’s
Triumphant Text provokes thy praise.
The living and life-giving bread,
To the great twelve distributed
When Life, himself, at point to die
Of love, was his own Legacy.

O soft self-wounding Pelican!
Whose breast weeps Balm for wounded man.
All this way bend thy benign flood
To a bleeding Heart that gasps for blood.
That blood, whose least drops sovereign be
To wash my worlds of sins from me.
Come love! Come Lord! and that long day
For which I languish, come away.
When this dry soul those eyes shall see,
And drink the unseal’d source of thee.
When Glory’s sun faith’s shades shall chase,
And for thy veil give me thy Face.

Amen.

from Richard Crashaw (ca. 1613–1649) after Thomas Aquinas (1226–1274)

THE PRAYERS OF THE PEOPLE

Minister: The Lord be with you.
People: And also with you.

Minister: Let us pray.
Lord, show us your love and mercy.
People: For we put our trust in you.
Minister: In you, Lord, is our hope.
People: And we shall never hope in vain.

Each time the minister says “Lord, in your mercy,” the congregation will respond with “Hear our prayer.”
THE LORD’S PRAYER

_In unison:

Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done, on earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, the power, and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

THE GRACE

_In unison:

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit be with us all. Amen.

Gerald Finzi’s anthem Lo, the Full, Final Sacrifice was commissioned by the Reverend Walter Hussey for the 1946 Patronal Festival of St. Matthew’s Church, Northampton. Hussey’s name is synonymous with patronage of the arts in the Church of England (he had commissioned Britten’s Rejoice in the Lamb just three years earlier), and he was responsible for works of art and literature by Bernstein, Sutherland, Moore, and Auden. The text is Richard Crashaw’s paraphrase on selections from the Eucharistic hymns Adoro te devote and Lauda Sion Salvatorem, composed by St. Thomas Aquinas for the establishment of the feast of Corpus Christi by Pope Urban IV in 1264. Crashaw was an English metaphysical poet whose conversion to Roman Catholicism, amid the zealous Puritanism of the time, led to his exile in Paris and then Rome, where he died at age 36. Finzi’s music is rooted in the tradition of Elgar, Vaughan Williams, and Parry, but it contains an even deeper sense of melancholy, due in part to the ravages of World War II. Finzi’s natural affinity for text setting combines a vital declamatory style with a lyrical impulse, and it is easy to see why Crashaw’s intense poetry, with its flowing lyricism and yearning beauty, appealed to the composer.

The work begins with a substantial organ introduction that presents several characteristics of Finzi’s compositional palette: dissonant seconds and a generally high level of chromaticism, meandering solo melodies, and thick, rich chord clusters. Finzi retains the verse structure of the poem and introduces new material at the corresponding breaks in the poetry. The work is somewhat symmetrical in construction: it builds towards the central section (“Rise, Royal Sion!”) with its own internal climax (“This sovereign subject…”) and then falls away from it, while simultaneously the music ebbs and flows to a series of ravishing internal peaks. Variety is maintained throughout this extensive work by means of a continuously changing texture, from solo voice to full choir, both a cappella and accompanied, and a compositional style that juxtaposes an intense harmonic language with melodies of exquisite beauty. Finzi’s gift for melodic writing is consistently apparent, but is best exemplified in the section beginning “O dear Memorial…” which will reappear to the words “O soft, self-wounding Pelican!” and in the final sublime “Amen.”

Percy Whitlock combined his skills as a composer with virtuosic organ performances both in church and theater, where he accompanied silent films on the organ. His organ output—defined by a yearning lyricism and rapidly changing tonal centers—was largely overlooked during his lifetime, but in recent years has earned its rightful place in the repertoire.

Composer in Residence Carson Cooman’s Remembering was commissioned by Bates College for the renaming of its chapel in memory of the Reverend Professor Peter J. Gomes, who died on February 28, 2011.
