Call to Worship

Psalm 36:5–9

Minister: Your steadfast love, O Lord, extends to the heavens,
Your faithfulness to the clouds.

People: Your righteousness is like the mighty mountains,
Your judgments are like the great deep;
You save humans and animals alike, O Lord.

Minister: How precious is your steadfast love, O God!
All people may take refuge in the shadow of your wings.

People: We feast on the abundance of your house,
And you give us drink from the river of your delights.

Minister: For with you is the fountain of life;
People: In your light we see light.

Invocation

Confession

In unison:

Eternal God, in whom we live and move and have our being, whose face is hidden from us by our sin, and whose mercy we forget: Cleanse us from all offenses, and deliver us from proud thoughts and vain desires; that humbly we may draw near to thee, confessing our faults, confiding in thy grace, and finding in thee our refuge and our strength, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

ANTHEM

Hymn to St. Cecilia

Benjamin Britten (1913–1976)

I. In a garden shady this holy lady
   With reverent cadence and subtle psalm,
   Like a black swan as death came on
   Poured forth her song in perfect calm:
   And by ocean’s margin this innocent virgin
   Constructed an organ to enlarge her prayer,
   And notes tremendous from her great engine
  Thundered out on the Roman air.

   Blonde Aphrodite rose up excited,
   Moved to delight by the melody,
   White as an orchid she rode quite naked
   In an oyster shell on top of the sea;
   At sounds so entrancing the angels dancing
   Came out of their trance into time again,
   And around the wicked in Hell’s abysses
   The huge flame flickered and eased their pain.

   Blessed Cecilia, appear in visions
   To all musicians, appear and inspire:
   Translated Daughter, come down and startle
   Composing mortals with immortal fire.
II.  I cannot grow;
I have no shadow
To run away from,
I only play.

I cannot err;
There is no creature
Whom I belong to,
Whom I could wrong.

I am defeat
When it knows it
Can now do nothing
By suffering.

All you lived through,
Dancing because you
No longer need it
For any deed.

I shall never be Different. Love me.

_Blessed Cecilia, appear in visions_
_To all musicians, appear and inspire:_
_Translated Daughter, come down and startle_
_Composing mortals with immortal fire._

III.  O ear whose creatures cannot wish to fall,
O calm of spaces unafraid of weight,
Where Sorrow is herself, forgetting all
The gaucheness of her adolescent state,
Where Hope within the altogether strange
From every outworn image is released,
And Dread born whole and normal like a beast
Into a world of truths that never change:
Restore our fallen day; O re-arrange.

O dear white children casual as birds,
Playing among the ruined languages,
So small beside their large confusing words,
So gay against the greater silences
Of dreadful things you did: O hang the head,
Impetuous child with the tremendous brain,
O weep, child, weep, O weep away the stain,
Lost innocence who wished your lover dead,
Weep for the lives your wishes never led.

O cry created as the bow of sin
Is drawn across our trembling violin.

O weep, child, weep, O weep away the stain.
O law drummed out by hearts against the still
Long winter of our intellectual will.

That what has been may never be again.

O flute that throbs with the thanksgiving breath
Of convalescents on the shores of death.

O bless the freedom that you never chose.

O trumpets that unguarded children blow
About the fortress of their inner foe.

O wear your tribulation like a rose.

_Blessed Cecilia, appear in visions_
_To all musicians, appear and inspire:_
_Translated Daughter, come down and startle_
_Composing mortals with immortal fire._

THE PRAYERS OF THE PEOPLE

Minister: The Lord be with you.
People: And also with you.
Minister: Let us pray.
   Lord, show us your love and mercy;
People: For we put our trust in you.
Minister: In you, Lord, is our hope;
People: And we shall never hope in vain.

Each time the minister says “Lord, in your mercy,” the congregation will respond with “Hear our prayer.”

THE LORD’S PRAYER

_In unison:_
Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done, on earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, the power, and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

THE GRACE

The Grace of Our Lord Jesus Christ, the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit be with us all. Amen.

MUSIC NOTES
Benjamin Britten was born on the feast day of the Patron Saint of Music, St. Cecilia (November 22nd): an auspicious start for someone who was to become the greatest British composer of the twentieth century. As early as 1935 Britten was contemplating the composition of an anthem in the tradition of the English ode to St. Cecilia; he would thereby join a distinguished line of composers and poets including Handel, Purcell, and Dryden. It was not until 1940, however, that he started working on a text of W. H. Auden, with whom he had collaborated on a number of projects, including the opera Paul Bunyan. Britten began drafting Hymn to St. Cecilia during his stay in America in the early 1940s, but in 1942 the composer decided to return to England on the ship Axel Johnson. Upon his departure, US customs officials confiscated all his manuscripts, for fear that they were secret codes, and Britten rewrote the work during his voyage from memory (one other masterpiece, A Ceremony of Carols was also penned in the mid-Atlantic at this time). The text follows in the ode tradition, with an invocation to the muse, “Blessed Cecilia, appear in visions to all musicians, appear and inspire” which Britten’s sets as a haunting refrain which concludes each of the three sections. The first section describes the Saint herself and includes references to non-Christian mythology: this music is set around the Phrygian mode on E and utilizes three voices moving in parallel motion against one voice moving in fourths and fifths. The second section is a fugal scherzo which personifies music; the third and final section is lyrical in nature, in which four solo voices represent different musical instruments, a tradition common in Cecilian odes.

Frank Bridge studied composition with Stanford and is perhaps best remembered today as Benjamin Britten's teacher; he was, however, an extremely influential composer and conductor in his own right. Today’s prelude is the haunting Adagio in E Major from the Three Pieces for Organ (1905), which combines a sweeping, lyrical melody with yearning chromatic harmonies.

Kenneth Leighton held university appointments at Leeds and Oxford before becoming Reid Professor of Music at Edinburgh in 1970. He is primarily remembered for his significant contribution to church music, including many organ works: Paean is an energetic and dazzling work, which highlights the composer’s distinctive harmonic vocabulary.
